

QUICK FACTS

REENTRY PROGRAMS

2,851

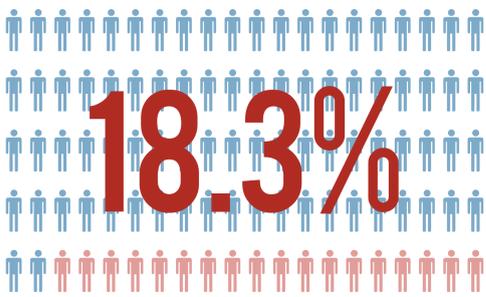

individuals with criminal justice-involvement participated in Volunteers of America Delaware Valley's reentry programs between July 1, 2017 and June 30, 2018.

OUR COMMITMENT TO REENTRY

For nearly forty years, Volunteers of America Delaware Valley (VOADV) has served as the leading provider of reentry services in Southern New Jersey. More than two-thousand (2,000) criminal justice-involved individuals are served annually by VOADV's reentry programs. Through contracts with both New Jersey's Department of Corrections and New Jersey's State Parole Board, VOADV presently operates three (3) residential community release programs for individuals who are under state custody, and three (3) community-based corrections programs for individuals under parole supervision. In 2015, VOADV received state appropriation through the Department of Community Affairs to launch Safe Return, our voluntary reentry program for adults released from prison or jail in the last three years without supervision, in the cities of Trenton and Atlantic City. The success of Safe Return has led to its 2017 expansion to the Camden, Cumberland, Gloucester, and Salem county communities.

All of VOADV's programs provide individualized assessment, comprehensive case management, evidence-based interventions, and responsive programming which focuses on an individual's most salient criminogenic needs. Our overarching goal is to reduce rates of recidivism and re-incarceration by mitigating the risks and addressing the needs of those served while simultaneously promoting public safety. Our commitment has translated into real results: VOADV's 2014 client cohort had an 18.3% rate of re-incarceration three years post-participation, compared to NJ's 2013 cohort rate of 29.8% and the national rate of 60%.

VOADV'S RE-INCARCERATION RATE

NJ'S RE-INCARCERATION RATE

NATIONAL RE-INCARCERATION RATE

VOADV'S REENTRY PROGRAMS

VOADV's reentry programs served 2,851 men and women during the 2018 fiscal year through the following programs:

- Addiction Treatment Program (ATP)- 72-bed residential treatment program for parolees
- Community Resource Center (CRC)- day reporting program for male and female parolees living in the community
- Fletcher House- 84-bed residential community release program for adult males who are within 24-months of parole eligibility
- Garrett House- 47-bed residential treatment program for adult females who are within 24-months of parole eligibility
- Hope Hall- 175-bed residential treatment program for adult males who are within 24-months of parole eligibility
- Program for Returning Offenders with Mental Illness Safely (PROMISE)- residential treatment program, with transitional and permanent supportive housing components, for male and female parolees who have chronic mental illness
- Safe Return- voluntary reentry program for individuals who have been released from prison or jail within the last three years without supervision. Presently has four office locations in Atlantic City, Camden, Trenton, and Sewell.

FISCAL YEAR 2018: IMPACT SUMMARY

A dynamic, mission focused service provider, VOADV's reentry programs serve all individuals touched by the criminal justice system whether they are individuals coming from state prison, persons on parole, or individuals involved in drug court. Our continuum of services and person-centered approach in working with criminal justice-involved individuals has had a tremendous impact. Below are basic demographics and program highlights for the 2018 fiscal year:

1. Program Service Highlights

assisted with getting ID, Social Security cards, & other vital documents

placed in employment

placed in job readiness or vocational training

enrolled in college

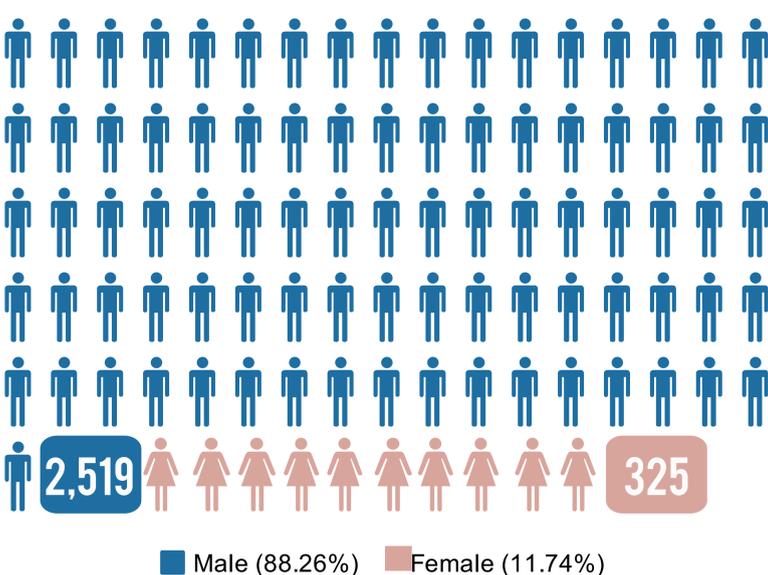

received a cognitive behavioral intervention

Safe Return clients received legal assistance

2. Distribution by Sex

3. Median Age at Admission (DOC & Parole Programs)

37 YEARS OLD